

Tamás KISMÁNYOKY

(Hungary)

E-mail: kis5556@ella.hu

He is working at the Georgikon Faculty of the University of Pannonia Keszthely and earlier its legal predecessor institutions since 1971. His employments were professor assistant, senior lecturer, associate professor, professor for agronomy and now from 2009 professor emeritus. Educational work of him to deliver lectures and consulting on undergraduate and postgraduate level for students /Bsc,Msc,PhD /. His subject-matters are: crop production, soil management furthermore research methods on field experiments. The main objectives of his research activities are the question of soil fertility. Investigations are carried out mostly in long term field experiments. From the mentioned field experiments numerous publications were published in the scientific reviews, journals etc. Recently. He is the member of the editorial staff of "Növénytermelés" /Crop production/ and the "Archives of Agronomy and Soil Science". He was the foundation member of the Hungarian Inter-institutional Committee for Publisher of Schoolbooks /ITSZB/ and in termin of 1986-1996 had elected to chairman of this committee.